The OSCE as an Assessment Method

Journal club meetings offer useful opportunities to develop critical appraisal skills and encourage evidence-based practice. In the context of health professions education, these meetings could contribute to the improvement and development of teaching practices. It is an opportunity for staff to share, brainstorm, and challenge thinking in a friendly environment.

Please join us for our first journal club meeting where we interrogate the OSCE as an assessment method.

The discussion will be facilitated by Dr Elize Archer from the CHPE.
