Closing date for applications

This programme will not necessarily be offered every year. Please contact the programme leader.

Programme structure

This is a postgraduate diploma which includes course work and practical assignments.

The programme focuses on the development of leadership and capacity in the field of Public Mental Health. It also aims to develop basic research skills, particularly with respect to the ability to interpret and use research findings in the development of services.

The programme is designed to be relevant and accessible to full-time working health and development professionals.

Duration of Programme

The programme is normally available over one year or two years. Only the one-year option is offered at the moment. Enquiries in this regard can be directed to the programme leader.

Presentation

The programme is presented in hybrid mode. This enables students to learn by means of longer periods of asynchronous online learning, as well as real-time online interactions and blocks of on-campus interactions.

Programme Content

The programme requires the completion of four compulsory modules, each of which involves practical assignments that relate to the ongoing work that you conduct in your work environment.

Compulsory modules for one-year registration

Postgraduate Programmes

For more information on the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences' postgraduate programmes, consult the University's Postgraduate Prospectus or the various departmental websites.

1. Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

Special admission to the postgraduate programmes in the Faculty is available to you if you:

- were denied opportunities to formal learning environments earlier because of systemic or other limitations, but you can demonstrate that you can now participate at a particular level in such learning opportunities; or
- can receive retrospective recognition for them.

If you do not have a bachelor's degree, you must follow the Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) procedure for admission to a postgraduate diploma, honours, MPhil or MA programme. Not all departments have the possibility of admission by means of the RPL procedure. A bachelor's degree awarded by a university of technology or a private provider of higher education will be recognised only if your degree is registered with the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) on the same level as the required university qualification. Please note: It remains the responsibility of a Department to establish if your existing qualification is up to standard.

More details of the Faculty's RPL procedure are available from the Faculty Administrator, Arts and Social Sciences, in the Admin A building.
