

Rear Admiral Hanno Teuteberg

Hanno Teuteberg joined the South African Navy (SA Navy) in 1977 and qualified as a seagoing combat officer onboard Type 12 Frigates followed by a stint as a Hydrographic Officer. In the mid-80s, he moved to the submarine branch where he followed the normal career path to commanding a submarine and then the flotilla itself (1998). During the SA Navy's acquisition project phase of its Meko 200 Frigates and Type 209 Submarines, he served as the Defence Attaché in Berlin. Promoted to Rear Admiral (JG) in 2006, he moved back to Simon's Town to take up the post of Director Force Preparation followed by stints within operations and business planning at both the operational and tactical levels (Maritime and Joint Head Quarters). He was promoted to Rear Admiral in early 2013 and acted as the Chief Director Maritime Strategy followed by another promotion to Deputy Chief of the Navy in 2014. Retiring from this post in 2017, he has kept himself busy with a variety of maritime related activities.
