 - Examiners must be approved by Higher Degrees and Research Committee; Faculty Board; and Senate
 - The names of examiners are confidential
- Once student and supervisor(s) are satisfied that the dissertation is ready for examination, the student needs to format the dissertation according to regulations.

Examination of doctoral dissertation

- The submission of the dissertation and supporting documents for examination is handled electronically via email to the PEO
- No dissertation will be sent for examination unless all 4 documents are received by the PEO in the zipped folder format requested.
- The PEO will then send the dissertation to the examiners.
- Examiners are given 6 weeks to examine the dissertation and submit their reports.
- The PEO will contact the doctoral candidate roughly 4 weeks after submission to set a date for the oral examination.
- The date provided for the oral examination can not be changed by the doctoral candidate.

Examination of doctoral dissertation

The oral examination consists of: student, supervisor(s), three examiners and a non-examination Chair

- First, examiners discuss their reports amongst each other
- Second, student is called in and examiners ask questions
- Third, student is excused and examiners deliberate
- Fourth, student is called back in and Chair delivers recommendation

Important: although supervisor(s) are present at all times during the oral examination, they are only observers and do not take part in the discussion or decision.
