LIFE MISSION:

My life mission is to ensure through my future work as a lawyer and in my personal capacity as a private citizen that my children will grow up in a South Africa that is better than the one we live in today. Although the liberation movement achieved freedom almost 25 years ago, our country is still plagued by gross inequality, poverty and discrimination on various grounds. My desire to play a role in affecting the necessary change in South Africa is part of why I aspire to become a judge one day. Genuine freedom can only be achieved once equality of opportunity reigns supreme, and that day has yet to arrive. Hence my choice to study Law, and specifically BA Law because it grants me the unique opportunity to take both Economics and Political Science as elective subjects - two of my great interests but also more importantly two areas which I believe are paramount in creating the South Africa we as a country are destined to become.
